The puzzles of the Act have been from time to time presented to the Election Judges, but unfortunately have not obtained much elucidation; and although Justice Vaughan Williams stated that he did not believe that in these Acts, fairly construed and applied, there was any trap or pitfall into which a candidate, determined to conduct his election honestly, need fall, the fact remains that many questions such as When does an election begin? and, therefore, When do election expenses begin to be a charge against a candidate? questions of agency and other matters, are still without settlement; while the position of outside associations taking part in election contests is most unsatisfactory.
