I have thought it advisable to give two of Lord Langdales judgments entire, as the best mode of enabling the reader to form a notion of his talents and powers as a judge, for in that capacity he will hereafter himself be judged by his fellow-men. That in the suit of the Duke of Brunswick against the King of Hanover, is profound and logical, and exhibits his extensive acquaintance with Civil and International Law. The case of Whicker versus Hume, shows how entangled and contradictory statements may be made perfectly clear and reconcilable when unravelled and explained by the patient and accurate investigation of a legal and philosophic mind. Lord Langdales Judgment in the suit of the Duke Of Brunswick versus the King Of Hanover, delivered 13th January, 1844. This case came on to be heard for argument on a demurrer to the Bill...
